SOAKING STORMS BOOST RAINFALL ABOVE NORMAL OVER LAST WEEK END

Agriculturists Elated
Over Prospect For Wet Winter

Miniature lakes, stalled automobiles and happy farmers were left in the wake of the week-end storm which roared in from the ocean to lift the rain record above normal in Washington township. Falling in a continuous sheet Sunday, the downpour moved the rain gauges in the district to approximately 2 inches for the day. The Southern Pacific gauge measured 3.81 inches as total precipitation from November 15 to 20.

Seasonal rainfall, beginning this year during the equinoctial storms on September 22, reaches the highest point in several years at 6.01 inches. Last year at this time the total was 1.95 inches. Total precipitation up to January 1 last year was 4.84 inches. Promises of weathermen that this year will be wet, are well on the way to fulfillment.

Agriculturists in this district were jubilant this week as orchard cover crops sprang up visibly in the deluge and early grain crops, sowed just a few days ago, pushed up green blades.

Orchardists who had already checked their trees for winter irrigation, stopped preparations and placed hope in further rainfall. Range grass, scarce during the past few years, was given an early start, much to the satisfaction of local cattlemen. Numerous farmers in the district kept a watchful eye on Alameda creek, in anticipation of the first water to flow and the subsequent rise in township well-levels.

Little damage was noted from the storm, the worst, perhaps, being a resumption of rock slides in Niles canyon. Motorists were warned Sunday that they proceeded through the narrows at their own risk. The underpass at the west end of Niles was made impassable for a time Sunday afternoon, when debris from Niles gutters clogged the pumps. Barriers were put up and motorists detoured over the nursery road.

A number of district cauliflower growers were inconvenienced when the deluge rendered their fields, ready for cutting, veritable morasses. Belated brush-burners, following in the wake of slow pruners, are to be seen sloshing about their task this week.

Guild Bazaar Will Be Held Here December 6

December 6 is the date set for the Congregational Ladies' Guild Bazaar, an annual affair, to be held at the Niles Congregational church, according to Mrs. E. A. Ellsworth, guild head.

Mrs. Ellsworth stated that all will be made welcome. The event will take place both during the afternoon and evening.

There will be art goods, candy, ice cream and home-cooked foods. An excellent dinner will be served.

THREE INJURED IN SERIES OF CRASHES HERE LAST WEEK

Local Men Unhurt When Forced Off Mountain
Road Near Sunol

George Selwig, Oakland man, suffered minor injuries and his son, riding with him, was severely shaken Sunday morning when their car was struck by one driven by Miss Donna Findeley, also of Oakland, at the canyon underpass south of Niles. The crash is said to have occurred when the Findeley woman confused Selwigs signal that he was about to turn across the highway into the canyon. She was unable to stop in time and crashed into the left side of the Selwig car, causing the machine to overturn. Selwig was thrown clear. He suffered contusions about the head and a minor back injury. The others were unhurt. Miss Findeley was accompanied by Harry Jenkins, also of Oakland. The injured man was treated by a Niles physician.

Intersection Crash
Apparently failing to notice the signal of a truck last Thursday night, John Mendoza and Thorold Arntzen, both of Niles, suffered numerous lacerations and bruises when their car crashed into the large vehicle at the intersection of Santos avenue and the Niles-Centerville road. Neither were seriously hurt.

Minor Accident
On their way to the hunting grounds in quest of quail one day last week, O. W. Ebright, George Bonde and E. Smith, the latter of Decoto, escaped injury when their car collided with another on a narrow road in the Pleasanton hills. Ebright, driving at the time, averted a more serious accident by swerving to the left side of the road.

SUPERIOR COURT TRIAL FOR HIT- RUN DRIVER

Alleged to have violated sections of the vehicle act pertaining to drunken driving and failing to render assistance after running down a pedestrian, Sisto Rodriguez, Decoto man, was held for superior court trial after preliminary hearing at the Niles court last Friday. Bail was set at $1000.

Rodriguez, said to have been under the influence of liquor, ran down and severely injured Manuel Garcia, also of Decoto, on October 31. He was arrested in San Leandro after leaving the stricken man in the road.

NILES IN FUREOR OVER "KIDNAPPING" TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Posses Form When Ed.
Rose's Daughter Is Thought Stolen

Washington township, and particularly Niles, was thrown into a furore Tuesday afternoon when little Edwina Rose, daughter of Ed. Rose, was thought kidnapped. The child appeared after a two hour frantic search had brought the sheriff's office and state highway officers to Niles. She had been hiding under a chair.

The child had been taken by her granduncle, James Rose, to visit with him on the Rose ranch on Morrison avenue early in the afternoon. He went about routine tasks, leaving Edwina in the house. Later, he prepared to drive to Niles and called the girl. Receiving no answer, he began a fruitless search, finally becoming alarmed and calling Ed. Rose, who immediately suspected kidnappers and rushed to the Niles grammar school to see that his other daughter, Leontine, was safe. He then summoned police, and put a call in to the sheriff's office for good measure. Niles was soon swarming with authorities. Townspeople turned out, and posesses were in the process of being formed, when Ed. Rose, in a frantic dash to the Rose ranch to seek clues, was totally flabbergasted to see his small daughter run out to greet him. The officials were dismissed and the village gradually resumed a normal aspect.

Mrs. Rose, in Oakland at the time with Miss Gladys Rose, stated that her daughter had never played such a serious hide and seek game before.

SQUANDERS FAMILY FUNDS; ARRESTED AFTER FIGHT

Living off the labor of his wife and children, then becoming incensed at their objections, led last week to the arrest of Mike Roblas, of Niles, when his wife filed complaint stating that he had struck her and her small baby in an altercation over Roblas' alleged drunkenness.

He was arraigned last Tuesday at the Niles justice court. Sentence was continued until December 14.

According to authorities, Roblas, who had not worked for some time, finally gave in to his wife's urging and secured a job for one day. Taking the small pay received, he immediately purchased a gallon of wine. When his wife objected to the purchase, he is alleged to have struck her and her small child.

Roblas' good behavior, and a real attempt to get work between now and December 14, were conditions laid down by the court.

Local Contractor Doing Job For Espee In Valley

E. E. Dias, Niles contractor, has been busy with his crews for the past two weeks, in construction of a 50 by 250 foot packing shed for the Southern Pacific company at Solyo, south of Tracy.

The building is being reconstructed after having been taken down at Salida had transported to the present site.

Dias, active in new construction work in this district, recently completed curbs, sidewalks and sewer system in the Shinn tract, at the western extremity of Niles.

HIRSCH REFUSES COMPOSITION IN FORECLOSURE CASE

Demands Frazier-Lemke
Act Be Declared As Unconstitutional

Refusal of Edwin H. Hirsch, of Irvington, to mediate with Mrs. Elizabeth H. Sloan, also of Irvington, in their test case concerning foreclosure by Hirsch on the Sloan ranch, adds complications to the legal battle that may lead to far reaching conclusions. It was noted Tuesday afternoon when debtor and creditor met for the initial hearing before the conciliation commissioner of Alameda county.

Called before the Farm Debt Adjustment committee when Mrs. Sloan fought foreclosure on her ranch by him, Hirsch refused to accept any adjustment under Amendment No. 75 to the National Bankruptcy Act, thus throwing the case back to the Federal court through Mrs. Sloan's petition to be considered under the provisions of the Frazier-Lemke amendment. Hirsch demanded that the Frazier-Lemke act be declared unconstitutional.

Amendment 75 of the National Bankruptcy Act was drawn up to enable debtor and creditor to discuss debt questions and reach an adjustment or composition suitable to both. The Frazier-Lemke amendment was added later to offset the probability that many creditors, determined to collect or foreclose, would refuse to accept a composition or adjustment. The Frazier-Lemke bill gives hard-pressed debtors a weapon against indiscriminate foreclosures.

In the case in question, E. H. Hirsch, now attempting to foreclose on the Sloan ranch in Christian Hollow, had bought the Sloan mortgage from his sister, Mrs. Lillie F. Wellheimer, also of Irvington.

HITCH-HIKE BANDITS ARRAIGNED HERE LAST FRIDAY

Identified through pictures by N. A. Barton, whom they held up and robbed near Mission San Jose on October 30, Donald Vredenberg, 25, and Betty O'Neill, alias Betty Loveall, 22, were brought before Judge J. A. Silva, at the Niles justice court Friday for arraignment on charges of grand theft.

Arrest of the pair was made at Eureka, after authorities there had received a description of them broadcast by San Jose police, after Barton had related his adventure. They were brought to Alameda county, where they have been held in the county jail.

The youthful hold-ups had stopped Barton at Mission San Jose, robbed him of $150, then forced him to drive them to San Jose, where they stole his car and disappeared.

Alvarado Rebekahs To Fete 75th Anniversary

The Alvarado Lodge, Rebekahs, will celebrate the 75th anniversary of their organization next Monday at a Diamond jubilee celebration.

Preparation for the event has occupied the members for many months. There will be numerous grand officers present.

Group Hears Interesting Talk On Economic Trends Monday

"Don't look back," was the advice given Niles businessmen Monday by Gregory J. Vitaich, sales advocate and general manager of a large bay region concern in an address on present economic trends before the Niles Chamber of Commerce. Vitaich was introduced to the group by F. H. Woodward, head of the east bay gas sales department of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company.

Urging civic planning for Niles, similar to that of small cities in the southern part of the state, Vitaich commented on the natural setting of the town. He deplored the neglect of Niles Canyon, emphasizing the fact that it was once a major recreational center in the bay region. He stated his hope that water would soon flow the year around in Alameda creek.

In connection with his advice to the town, Vitaich noted that the flow of traffic in all seasons is fairly steady. He suggested that an attempt be made to lure the traveler to stop for a time.

Widening his subject to current economics, the speaker praised the state, and urged co-operation of all units when the great bridges are completed. He foresees a time of rising values in 1937. In discussing the economic depression, he deplored price cutting, as the major evil today. He flayed the "chiseler" and advised home people to trade at home and with local business houses.

Previous to Vitaich's address, Chamber President Jones reminded the membership of the forthcoming Thanksgiving dinner dated for next Monday noon, at which time the local civic group will be hosts to numerous guests from other towns. Speaker for the day will be John H. Kimball, Oakland official.

A report of the Boy Scout day cruise was made by Paul Donovan in the absence of Harvey Barun, committee chairman, and it was unanimously voted to issue formal thanks to Mr. and Mrs. William H. Ford, who made the trip possible for the troop.

WATER DIVERSION PROTESTED AT WARM SPRINGS

The Division of Water Resources held a public hearing in San Francisco, Tuesday morning, on an application by the Sisters of the Holy Names, Warm Springs, for the appropriation of one-half cubic foot of water per second, direct diversion, and thirty acre feet per annum storage from Agua Caliente Creek and ten acre feet from Laurel Creek, for irrigation of 114 acres on Santa Inez Lodge property.

The application was protested by a number of Warm Springs residents who claimed riparian rights to the use of the creek waters. Those who protested are Dr. M. M. Enos, F. F. Vargas, Joseph Briar, M. T. Lemos, Jr., W. C. Adams, Mary A. Smith, A. J. Santos, Antone Vargas and John F. Souza.

The Sisters of the Holy Names were represented by George J. Hatfield, San Francisco attorney, Harold Conkling, deputy state engineer in charge of water worker rights, conducted the hearing.

Ted Dundas and Jack Townsend drove to Berkeley Saturday to see the California-Idaho game, played in the Memorial Stadium.

Editorial Comment

NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

JUST A FRIENDLY HINT

The Register would like to call Mr. Earl Warren aside and tell him a painful truth. Of course it wouldn't do any good. Nothing does any good. True, the people can get a little more than enough, occasionally. There's Mr. Foss. The people got enough of the Foss family. And up in Contra Costa county, they got enough of Veale. It took them a long time to get enough of that spendthrift egotistical old fossil. But it is encouraging to know that they did in time wake up.

Warren may think it is quite an honor to be chairman of the Republican central committee. It is an honor. But Warren has work to do for Alameda county. Alameda county is paying him a salary, not to work for the Republican party in California—but to work for Alameda county. It expects him in these hard times to do some work himself, and not just now and then drop in to see how his deputies are making out. It expects him to give all of his time and energy to Alameda county. Now he can not give all his time to Alameda county when he is running around the state in the interests of Republican candidates. He can give but a fraction of his time to his employer, the taxpayers of this county, when he is spending his time preparing literature for a political campaign, and interviewing party leaders from every nook and corner of this great state.

The cost of the district attorney's office has been mounting at a scandalous rate during the past four or five years. That expense should be trimmed, not increased. It might be kept in reasonable bounds if the district attorney would drop his side lines, and get down to business.

A man running his own business, can neglect that business for places of honor, if he so elects. That is his affair. He pays the bill, and if he wants to let his private undertaking go "pot" while he chases the rainbow of tinsel and gold braid, that's his privilege. But a public official is, or should be, just like a man or woman who works for a glue factory, drives a truck or counts money in a bank. Should such an employee decide to give most of his time to being secretary of some lodge or other, his boss would decide that he could give all his time to that business—and get out!

Now that's the way it should be with Earl Warren. He should either give all his time to his duties as district attorney and get rid of his surplus deputies, or get out.

PAYMENTS VOTED BY ASSOCIATION ON 1934 'COTS

$400,000 Member Credits
Setup; Rising Market
Strengthens Assets

With monthly reports showing an improvement in market strength during the past week in dried fruits, directors of the California Prune and Apricot Growers Association, meeting in San Jose last week, took action as follows:

1. In four resolutions set up member credits in the associations capital funds, including nearly $400,000 additional acknowledgements to members prior to the 1929 reorganization and capital accounts since then.

2. Authorized the management to make progress payments on the 1934 apricot and peach pools, which General Manager C. D. Cavallaro said would be distributed to members growers in advance of the December tax date.

Several members of the Laura Loma Parlor, Native daughters of the Golden West, Niles, drove to Oakland Thursday night to be on hand for the official visit of Grand President Gladys Noce, of Sutter Creek. Mrs. Noce is a sister of Mrs. M. L. Fournier.

INITIAL JUNIOR CHAMBER MEETING SET FOR MONDAY

Group Being Assisted By Pleasanton Civic Organization

The initial meeting of the projected Niles Junior Chamber of Commerce, originally planned for last Tuesday noon, was postponed until next Monday night in order that a greater number of young Niles businessmen may attend. The meet will be held at the Hotel Belvoir at 6:30 p. m.

Formed as an organization for untrammelled expression among the younger Niles men, the Junior Chamber will in no way be opposed to the existing Chamber of Commerce here, Chamber president F. V. Jones gave the new venture his enthusiastic backing this week, as have many members of the senior group.

In the organization work, the embryo civic group will be assisted by members of the Pleasanton Junior Chamber, who have stated their intentions of doing all possible to clear the way for the Niles juniors.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hurley were among Niles people who attended the St. Mary's-Santa Clara game at Kezar stadium in San Francisco Sunday.

Nothing Short of Murder

By J. T. BARBER

WNU Service

FOR the seventh time, Marcella Kensington was on the point of asking the hand of Lieut. Michael Faraday, but she was interrupted, as usual, by some police business and she was modest enough to be glad of it. It was a-1 to be in love with a big handsome slow-witted Adonis who did not seem to know that as a woman you require more than polite attention.

"What in the world makes you think you're a good policeman, my dear? Why, Michael, you never see anything." It wasn't the most gentle of hints.

But Michael only laughed at such nonsense. He said to her, "Rats, I can tell you everything you have on." And with that he swung about with his back to her.

"You're wearing," he said, "a bright blue velvet turban—and a scarf to match. And you have a blue and yellow coat with diagonal stripes. Now then—there are blue gloves and blue kid sandals. And your red hair's just been barbered. There! How's that?"

"Indeed my hair isn't red, Michael!" she said resentfully. "And you didn't say a word about my eyes. They're deep blue; an intelligent blue, they are."

"I'd have told you in a moment," he said with maddening airs. "I'm the most observing man in the department."

"Tuh," Marcella almost snorted. "What's observation to a man like you but the knack of seeing superficialities? I thought policemen had to see inside of people to get the real truth of things."

"You're telling me!" said Lieutenant Faraday. "Say, it's the heart that tells the story. Look at their hearts, if you can, every time."

"Using brass knuckles or a piece of rubber hose?" Marcella asked, looking at him hopelessly.

Lieutenant Faraday merely smiled at her. "That reminds me," he said (that was where the police business interrupted them) "I've a bit of a third degree to give a guy. Understand we're not calling it that, but I guess that's what it is. So you'll have to excuse me now," said Michael, rising from his office chair. "Is it," asked Marcella timidly, ignoring the braggart in him, "that cold little man they brought in as I came up?"

Michael nodded generously. "Yes," he said. "They think he's implicated in the killing of an old roadstand keeper. But we haven't anything on him at all."

"Then why," Marcella was puzzled, "are you holding him?"

"Observation," said Michael professionally. "We'll hold him awhile and maybe we'll get a clue. You see, right now I'm going to take him out to the old man's place and have him look at the—ah, the victim."

Marcella had too good sense to interfere with Michael's business and so she didn't ask to go along. She just stood, forlorn and aimless on the police station steps and he hadn't the heart to desert her. He took her with him.

The dead man and his slayer faced each other in the engulfing silence of the death chamber. Michael never moved, just stood there in the semi-darkness, watching. Marcella inspected the little man more closely, more alertly as she seemed to notice a movement on his neck like the flickering of a shadow—only, it was too regular and far too fast to be a shadow.

There, where the veins and chords stood out on his scrawny neck, Marcella saw a pulse beating wildly.

Convulsively she squeezed the lieutenant's arm. Michael merely nodded and held up a warning finger. Silently he watched the pulse beat faster, faster. Then quite abruptly he said in a normal tone, "You're a cool one, Burton!" And he waited for the man to start his crooked, confident smile. "But what's the matter with your neck?" Michael said rapidly. "Your heart's beating too fast, Burton. Your heart is giving you away, killer!"

The cool little man was trying, frantically off-guard, to close his collar and there was a mad staccato of questions from half a dozen detectives who suddenly stamped into the room. Then came the little man's confession.

In the car and headed for home, Marcella felt quite well enough to talk about how Lieutenant Faraday had discovered that pulse beat.

"It was swell," she said, putting her hand into one of his and trusting that the police chauffeur would continue to mind his own business. "See," she added, "if you can feel my pulse and discover what my deepest secret is."

Lieutenant Faraday accepted the hand professionally. And he gave it some thought, too. But suddenly, embarrassed, for no apparent reason, he handed it back to her. Not too forcibly. Marcella stood her ground and refused to accept it.

"I can't make anything out of it," he said in a most unpoliceman-like tone.

Marcella held her hand firmly, not too firmly, where it was. And then she had a happy thought.

"Well," she said, smiling up at him encouragingly, "just hold it awhile, maybe you'll get a clue."

New Typhoid Serum Is Tested on 65 Patients

New Orleans.—Tests of a new typhoid serum at two hospitals here by a New York physician resulted in his being awarded the gold medal by the American association at Cleveland recently.

Dr. Gregory Schwartzman, of Mount Sinai hospital, in New York, won the award for the serum, which "marks a great advance in the battle on this disease."

When typhoid cases in New York did not offer the doctor such a large field, he came to Charity hospital here with Dr. George Baehr, also of the New York hospital.

During a three-month test period, 65 patients received the serum. The "cure" was not only more rapid, but was classed as "remarkable."

More than $8,000,000 worth of American apples were sold the world over in 1933.

Mexican beetles are reported doing considerable damage in the bean-growing belt of North Carolina.

Many cattle now are branded painfully with a chemical that removes the hair and leaves the skin white.

In court, he made no attempt to deny his guilt. The magistrate was sympathetic and imposed a fine of only $2. Million didn't have even a nickel so he went to jail for two days. And I sincerely hope his cell was cool and comfortable—as cool and comfortable as he made those youngsters.

MILLIONS TO AID WILDLIFE ASSURED

Program Launched for Protection of Game.

Washington.—Restoration of wildlife will take a big step forward with the inauguration of the program of the President's committee on wildlife restoration, which is to begin soon, according to plans in the making now, a bulletin of the American Game association points out. A fund of $8,500,000 to start the program is virtually assured, according to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. The bureau of biological survey, under his department, will have charge of the work. J. N. Darling, chief of the bureau, said that he "hopes to make a wonderful showing during the year."

This fund is made up of several funds allocated for different work, all, however, for the benefit of wildlife; $1,000,000 was previously set aside, taken from funds for forest purchase; $1,500,000 for the purchase of submarginal lands; $3,500,000 from the recent drought relief appropriation, to be spent in the drought areas of the upper prairie states; and $2,500,000 from public works funds.

"This is not free money to spend as we will," Chief Darling said in commenting upon the fund. "It is not granted to us to use as we think best. It is subject to marginal land purchasing regulations, subject to drought relief regulations, and subject to the rule that we must use it for relief labor, excepting the $2,500,000 which we expect from the public works funds, and which we have not yet definitely received from the Public Works administration."

Today Whitby is a fishing port only, and its real splendors belong to the past; to the days of the old Saxon monastery of St. Hilda and Caedmon; to the days of the Great Synod in 664, when Saxon kings and the leading ecclesiastical lights of the land met with pomp and circumstance to settle the vexed question of the date of Easter; to the days of wooden ships and wooden ship-building, when Whitby was fifth port in England and her sturdy oak-built ships were famed across the seven seas; to the days when Whitby was one of the chief bases of the Greenland whaling industry, and Cook and Scoresby sailed from the port on their exciting enterprises; to the days when 1,500 men were regularly employed mining and carving jet (a black semi-precious mineral) and twice this number were engaged in the alum industry along the coast.

There is no shipping now. At the dawn of the great iron age some of the "yards" turned to iron, and many fine screw steamers were built on the stocks which then lined the upper harbor. But the shallowness of that harbor and the distance from foundries and rolling mills were fatal handicaps, and Whitby found annihilating rivals in the ports of the Tees and Tyne.

The alum industry died with the discovery of a cheaper method of production. Ancient, Crooked Streets. The old town's streets are tortuous and narrow, the names of the chief ones, Baxtergate and Flowergate, suggest that they were built when there were no traffic problems. There is documentary evidence of their existence in the fourteenth century. Flowergate climbs down the slope of the West Cliff. Baxtergate runs parallel to the docks. A steel bridge, originally a wooden drawbridge, conducts its bewildered traffic to the east side of the harbor, and here is the equally ancient and even narrower Church street again running parallel to the harbor and leading to the foot of the famous 139 steps which the faithful must climb to attend worship in the parish church, St. Mary's.

Whitby is the shopping center for a wide rural area. Its shops are chiefly in the two main streets and its market backs off Church street. The market day is Saturday.

Early in the morning the farmers arrive in their neat little traps, with baskets of butter, eggs, chickens, curds (filling for the famous Yorkshire cheesecakes), trussed geese, rabbits, and the like.

Artist Given Highest of Soviet Decorations

Moscow.—A Soviet artist who once was under fire for lack of revolutionary spirit—I. I. Brodsky—has been awarded the "Order of Lenin," highest of Soviet decorations.

Brodsky follows the realistic school of painting and, by consequence, has often been accused by revolutionary artists of "passive reflection" and "photographic naturalism." But apparently these criticisms had no effect on the all-union central executive committee, who conferred the decoration.

The artist has painted a number of well-known pictures, among them: "Session of the Second Congress of Comintern," "Session of the Revolutionary Military Council," and "Shooting of Twenty-six Commissars." He also has executed portraits of Stalin, Voroshilov, and other high officials.

Hard-Boiled Cavalrymen "Kidnaped" Little Lamb

Broadus, Mont.—Rough, tough, hard-boiled members of the machine gun unit of the Fourth United States cavalry participated in a "kidnaping" near here—and are suffering retribution.

While the doughboys were approaching Broadus a tiny lamb trailed the cavalcade for three miles. Unable to force the kid to return to its mother, the soldiers placed it in a chuck-wagon and made the stranger a company pet.

Now the machine gun unit has a special "lamb-nursing detail"—armed and abetted by a nipple and bottle of special construction.

OLD WHITBY

Scotch Lassies Work at Whitby During Fishing Season

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

MELLOWED by time, Whitby, climbing the cliffs of the North sea coast to which it has clung for centuries, draws many visitors who are lured by the atmosphere of old England.

Most of the old part of the town remains as it was hundreds of years ago, dominated by the parish church, St. Mary's—built in 1100—and the famous ruins of Whitby abbey.

Today Whitby is a fishing port only, and its real splendors belong to the past; to the days of the old Saxon monastery of St. Hilda and Caedmon; to the days of the Great Synod in 664, when Saxon kings and the leading ecclesiastical lights of the land met with pomp and circumstance to settle the vexed question of the date of Easter; to the days of wooden ships and wooden ship-building, when Whitby was fifth port in England and her sturdy oak-built ships were famed across the seven seas; to the days when Whitby was one of the chief bases of the Greenland whaling industry, and Cook and Scoresby sailed from the port on their exciting enterprises; to the days when 1,500 men were regularly employed mining and carving jet (a black semi-precious mineral) and twice this number were engaged in the alum industry along the coast.

There is no shipping now. At the dawn of the great iron age some of the "yards" turned to iron, and many fine screw steamers were built on the stocks which then lined the upper harbor. But the shallowness of that harbor and the distance from foundries and rolling mills were fatal handicaps, and Whitby found annihilating rivals in the ports of the Tees and Tyne.

The alum industry died with the discovery of a cheaper method of production.

Ancient, Crooked Streets. The old town's streets are tortuous and narrow, the names of the chief ones, Baxtergate and Flowergate, suggest that they were built when there were no traffic problems. There is documentary evidence of their existence in the fourteenth century. Flowergate climbs down the slope of the West Cliff. Baxtergate runs parallel to the docks. A steel bridge, originally a wooden drawbridge, conducts its bewildered traffic to the east side of the harbor, and here is the equally ancient and even narrower Church street again running parallel to the harbor and leading to the foot of the famous 139 steps which the faithful must climb to attend worship in the parish church, St. Mary's.

Whitby is the shopping center for a wide rural area. Its shops are chiefly in the two main streets and its market backs off Church street. The market day is Saturday.

Early in the morning the farmers arrive in their neat little traps, with baskets of butter, eggs, chickens, curds (filling for the famous Yorkshire cheesecakes), trussed geese, rabbits, and the like.

Chiefly in Church street are the shops of the jet and fossil dealers. Jet is fossilized wood converted into carbon. It is found in beds known as jet rock, which crop out in several places along the coast. It does not occur in seams, like coal, but in isolated pockets, which make its mining a speculative business. A man might dig for months, and not find a handful. A good pocket, however, when the trade was in its heyday, might have been worth anything up to $250.

There is no mining now. What craftsmen are left depend for their supplies on the longshoremen, who collect the bits washed out of the cliffs, or from submarine explosions.

Its Jet Is Distinctive.

While there is diverse opinion regarding the merits of jet as a medium for the true artist, it has inspired some very fine and original carving. It is easy to work and takes on a lovely polish, as different from the glaze of glass and imitation jet as the polish of cheap furniture is from the patina of a genuine piece of Queen Anne. Moreover, while jet is found elsewhere, notably in Spain, Whitby jet is distinctive.

Most of the famous craftsmen are dead, and there has been a tendency for their successors to keep the standardized designs. But here and there one of them will show a flash of originality, and hope endures that the pendulum of fashion will swing back.

The fossils which form the second bow of the Whitby jet dealers have a more strictly scientific interest. The commonest is the ammonite. It is found in immense profusion along the entire coast, but from the geologist's point of view its most interesting aspect is its extraordinary variety. The ammonite, of course, was a marine animal belonging to the family of squids and octopuses. Its nearest existing relative is the nautilus.

The ammonite, which is particularly abundant on the rocks at the foot of the Abbey cliff, has given rise to an interesting legend which still finds credence among Whitby fisher folk. They believe it to be the petrified remains of a snake. Rarely, however, is a specimen found with its "head" intact. The story goes that in the days of St. Hilda, the district suffered from a plague of adders. The holy lady was prevailed upon to use her influence against them, with the result that first their heads were prayed off and then their bodies were turned into stone.

Cottages of the Fishermen.

From the main streets of Whitby—Baxtergate, Flowergate, Church street—and thence from Skinner street, Sandgate, Haggsgate and St. Ann's Staith, narrow lanes twist among the old cottages or lead to watery dead ends.

The cottages are built in amazing confusion. One has the impression that they must have pushed themselves up, mushroom fashion, from the ground whenever there was

RESTORE SMYRNA TO PREVIOUS BEAUTY

Lottery Funds to Be Used for Improvements.

Ismir, Smyrna.—Smyrna, "Turkey's eye on the Mediterranean," is to be restored to its previous beauty.

The city, as port and trading place of Turkey, second only in importance to Istanbul, was almost completely wrecked by the great fire of 1922, when Mustafa Kemal's troops ejected the Greeks, and it is still partly in ruins now.

Under the leadership of Dr. Behtchet Sabit Bey, reconstruction of the city which, incidentally, has the best claim of being Homer's birthplace, will be undertaken.

The city holds vast areas of which it took control after the expulsion of Greeks and Armenians, who had formed about half of the city's total population before the Greco-Turkish war.

On these grounds building lots in residential quarters will be sold at low installment payments and, under certain conditions, even given free of charge.

In the workmen's districts about nine square feet will sell at 20 cents per foot and the city will furnish the building material gratis provided its model plan is adopted.

Upon this plan 500 homes so far have been constructed, of which each has a bathroom and is surrounded by a small garden.

Two new main avenues will divide the city into four sections. One will lead straight up from the port to the famous ancient fortress on Mount Pagus and thus open up a magnificent view.

To defray first costs, a lottery, expected to yield 400,000 Turkish pounds, is being organized by Ismir's magistrate.

Sterilize Soils, Control Weeds, Using Electricity

Sterilizing soils by use of electricity, to render them disease and weed free, in the opinion of engineers in the department of agricultural engineering at the Ohio State university, promises to supplant older methods employed by greenhouse men in sterilizing soils for propagating benches, potwork, in hotbeds and cold frames.

Up to now, chemical and steam and dry heat have been employed. Two ways of using electricity have been devised. One uses electrical heating elements buried in the soil. Soil itself, in the other, is the conductor. The electricity, passing through the soil, heats the soil moisture to steam, which does the sterilizing.

About one kilowatt-hour of electricity is required to sterilize a cubic foot of soil. A sterilizer holding five cubic feet of soil can be built at a small cost for materials.

space. They have no gardens. They have, with few exceptions, no view save into their neighbor's parlor or down his chimney stack. They are, however, all built on one general plan, which gives a kitchen, parlor, a best room, two bedrooms, and an attic. Their architects and builders were all men of the sea. Today it is chiefly the fishermen who live in them.

Even the fishing trade at Whitby has suffered more than an ordinary share of economic vicissitude. Old residents of the town can remember the time when, in summer, during the height of the North sea herring season, the harbor was a forest of masts. And they have since seen the time when the unloading of a solitary herring drifter created a sensation. The herring trade has vanished. But that spirit without which no industry can thrive has remained alive in the breasts of the sturdy Whitby men, and the port has of late years experienced a revival in the crab and lobster trade.

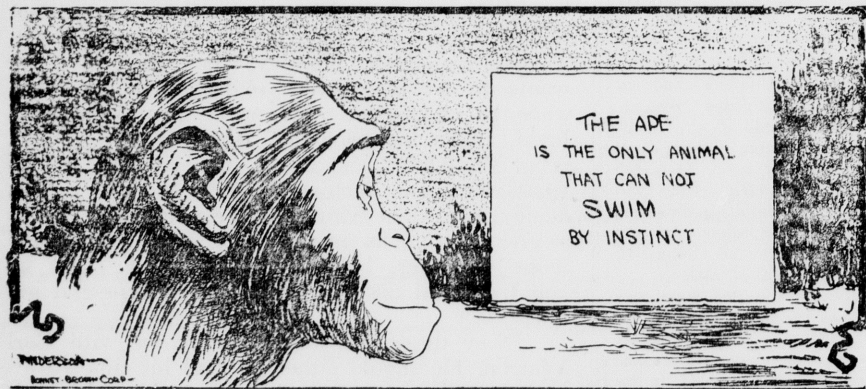

Coble a Fine Surf Boat.

That view to the east, across the harbor, so beloved of painters and photographers, would not be complete without the fishing craft, moored hard up to the very threshold of the cottages; without the lobster pots stacked upon the quays, the salmon nets spread out on poles to dry in the sun; without the groups of blue-jeaned, salt-tanned men, busy with their gear or gossiping. Some of these men are old, white-bearded, and loquacious; but most of them are in their prime, tall, square-shouldered; soft, catlike in the way they move about, restrained in their speech, watchful.

The type of craft characteristic of the coast is the coble. No photograph can show its superb sailing qualities. Its design is the evolutionary outcome of conditions. It is pre-eminently a surf boat.

The coble's greatest draft is forward, and on an open shore it is landed stern first, its slender bows offering no resistance to the surf. It sails fast and very close to the wind, because its long rudder acts as a keel. But the rudder is also a source of danger, for it may foul a mass of seaweed or become entangled in anchored fishing gear when the boat is in a heavy breeze. The coble, like a spirited horse, demands expert handling.

WHEN THE ENGINE STOPS

There is a clue to the cause for the sudden stopping of the engine in the manner in which it dies, states L. G. Evans, director of roadside service of the National Automobile Club. If the carburetion system is out of order, the stopping will be marked by a sputtering or backfiring—a sign of fuel starvation. That caused by some fault in the electrical system, abrupt and silent.

Excellence of the work is causing wide comment.

LIONS CLUB MAY ARRANGE FOR PARKING SYSTEM HERE

Negotiations Under Way With State After Meet Monday

Further work on Centerville's Main street loomed early this week when the Centerville Lions Club executive committee appointed Manuel Alameda chairman of a committee to communicate with A. H. Skeggs, state highway official, on a plan to draw up a parking system for the town. The committee meeting was Monday night.

A system of parking lines, probably the 45 degree diagonal variety, is being considered.

President Joe Jason, who will not be downed in his battle to secure a whistle to announce Lion meets and the noon hour, brought that question before the executive committee again. The device may be installed if the original price can be greatly scaled down.

Still battling against odds to arrange some sort of street cleaning service for Centerville, the Lions last week urged cooperation of all rural towns on the state highway system in an effort to bring action. The movement had made little headway early this week.

Tomorrow night the Lions will sponsor their annual turkey whist, and event which sends dozens of birds to local tables each year. The affair will be held at the Parish hall. There will be "a turkey for every two tables," as well as a turkey door prize. Refreshments will be served.

"When Men Marry," a farce comedy employed by an all male cast, will probably be produced by the club sometime in January. The talent will be drawn from the roster of business men in Washington township.

FINAL MEETING OF TERM TUESDAY FOR P.T.A.

Mrs. A. J. Dutra presided over the Tuesday meeting of the Centerville Parent-Teachers group in the absence of Mrs. Andrew Gronley, president.

The meet was the last for the current term of the school year. Classes will be suspended on December 14 this fall, a week earlier, because of Teachers' Institute.

A committee was appointed to arrange for Christmas baskets for the children. Those named: Thomas Maloney, Mrs. Paul Daugherty, Mrs. Joe Jason and the teachers.

Mrs. Jack Williamson, of the program committee, brought two youthful pianists, June Farrington and Anna Milcent Shinn, who rendered a number of selections.

Further business at the meeting culminated in the decision to sponsor a movie party for the Centerville Boy Scout troop in December.

"CASEY" SMOKER TO ATTRACT MEMBERS THIS EVENING

Members of the Centerville Knights of Columbus will gather at the Parish Hall tonight for something more than their regular meeting. The annual "Smoker" and entertainment is slated for the meet.

Each "Casey" is urged to see to it that his fellow members are on hand.

The program will consist of a series of wrestling and boxing matches, the talent secured from Santa Clara by Tom Maloney.

There will be ample eats and free smokes, members said.

BASKETBALL UNDER WAY AT W.U.H.S. THIS WEEK

Moleskins have been exchanged for shorts at the Washington Union high school, and the sphere for the casaba, as Coach Jess Regli passes a wary eye over his prospects for the coming basketball season.

Started last week, practice for the aspirants has consisted of floor work and passing. Suits were given out to both varsity and B squads yesterday. Ten men in each division checked out equipment. Regli, stated, however, that the squads were by no means picked, and that he expects some keen competition.

Prospects for the varsity five are excellent, Regli said, in spite of the fact that the only first string man left from last year is Jack Rathbone, guard. The B squad, unbeatable last time appears to be considerably weaker.

Basketball is drawing a greater interest this season, and the boys are determined to finish in the first division.

FIRE CHIEFS REQUEST CHANGE IN MEET PLAN THURSDAY

A resumption of the former meeting policy, which brought interesting and informative speakers before the Alameda County Firemen's Association, will take place at future meetings following a gathering last Thursday night at which rural fire chiefs voiced a protest at having sheer entertainment displace instructive speakers.

Local fire chiefs who attended were: Joe Pashote, of Newark; Chief Alves, of Niles; Frank Madruga, assistant chief of the Centerville department, and Chief Roland Bendel, of Decoto. All were unanimous in the opinion that the meets should be times for the spread of fire fighting data, and made their wishes known to the officials of the association. The rural smoke-eaters threatened to withdraw from the organization and set up an independent group, if their demands for informative speakers were not met. The Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley departments backed up the local men.

The December meeting of the association will be held in Emeryville.

CHILD ABSENT FROM SCHOOL; FATHER ARRESTED

Failure to send his small son to school, after repeated promises to do so, led to the arrest and arraignment of Frank Maria, Niles man, last week.

The complaint was filed by Miss Jensen, county health official, after Elmer Maria, school age boy, had been absent from his classes for some time.

Hailed before Judge J. A. Silva, at the Niles justice court Friday, Maria pleaded not guilty. He will be given a court trial tomorrow. He had been released on his own recognizance.

Why Hospitals Use a Liquid Laxative

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons?

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later.

Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right dose of a liquid laxative brings a more natural movement, and there is no discomfort at the time, or after.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good. A properly prepared liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin brings safe relief from constipation. It gently helps the average person's bowels until nature restores them to regularity. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative which all druggists keep ready for use. It makes an ideal family laxative; effective for all ages, and may be given to the youngest child.

ED. ROSE BACK AFTER JOURNEY TO OLD MEXICO

Passing through Laredo, Texas, Rose and his companion drove into Old Mexico as far as Monterey. On the return trip they came directly into California by way of Tia Juana. They stopped

Did you ever stop to think?

By Edson R. Waite

Money spent at home helps you and your city. Money spent away from home helps some other city. This habit of sending away to distant points for printing that you can get at home is becoming too common. I quote an editorial from the Penang Gazette and Straits Chronicle, which should be read carefully by every businessman. The editor says:

"We have received an interesting little booklet issued by Messrs. Mansfield & Company, Ltd. The booklet is a mine of information and gives details not only for traveling to and from Europe but of local leave and extended holiday trips which can be made by vessels of companies for which the firm act as agents. We were particularly glad to note in the foreword the following mention of Penang:

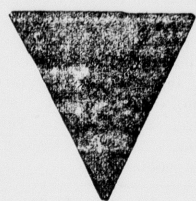

"The firm of Mansfield & Co., Ltd., was founded in Singapore in 1868, with branches in Sandakan and Penang. Although the Sandakan branch is no longer in existence, that at Penang continues to grow in importance."

"And just one word of complaint. Why was it considered necessary to send to Europe for the production of the booklet? It is a neat affair, but there is nothing in it beyond the ability of Malayan firms to produce."

"Spend in Malaya First' would be a good motto for those of us who earn our daily bread in this country."

Do They Borrow Your Collection Of Circular Letters?

HAVE YOUR neighbors ever dropped into your home to borrow the weekly collection of circular letters that the users think are as good as advertising in a country newspaper?

Few people realize the actual coverage of even the modest country newspaper. Not long ago an advertising expert is quoted as saying that careful research had ascertained that a certain well known metropolitan paper is read, an average, for the space of twenty minutes, while the average country newspaper has a "reading life" of three hours to its credit! It is kept around the house for a week and everyone in the family takes his turn in going through its pages. And its readers are really increased for the reason that oftentimes the paper is borrowed by those not fortunate to be a subscriber.

There is nothing in the way of an advertising medium that circulates in Washington Township that is as persistently read and digested as regularly and thoroughly as the Township Register.
